1. WELCOME MESSAGE

Welcome message of WKF President Antonio Espinós

The Mediterranean Championships, to take place in Guadalajara, Spain, from September 12 to 14 are a key event in our sport's calendar, bringing together the best karate athletes from countries across the Mediterranean. This competition is not only a stage for established champions but also a valuable opportunity for young and upcoming karatekas to test their skills, learn, and grow through high-level competition.

Regional events like this are at the heart of karate's ongoing progress. They offer a platform where talented athletes can experience international-level challenges while representing their nations with pride.

Over the years, the Mediterranean Championships have steadily gained in quality and competitiveness. The event has become a reference point for technical excellence and organisational standards. This next edition promises to raise the bar even higher, as Spain—a country with a strong karate tradition and consistent international success—takes on the responsibility of hosting.

I would like to sincerely thank the Mediterranean Karate Federation and its president Bechir Cherif for their dedication to promoting karate in the region, and the Royal Spanish Karate Federation, under the leadership of President Antonio Moreno, for organising this edition with professionalism and commitment. I wish all the athletes, coaches, officials, and spectators an enjoyable and successful event.

Antonio Espinós

Dear karatekas and friends,

It is an honour for me, as President of the Royal Spanish Karate Federation, to extend the warmest welcome to all the countries participating in these Mediterranean Games, which will be held from 12 to 14 September 2025 in the welcoming city of Guadalajara.

During these days, karate will unite athletes, coaches and fans from all over the Mediterranean in a meeting that goes beyond competition, it will be a space for respect, coexistence and sporting excellence.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to the city of Guadalajara for opening its doors with such generosity and enthusiasm, and for throwing itself into the organisation of an event of this magnitude. Welcome message from the Mayoress of Guadalajara Ana Guarinos

Dear athletes, coaches, delegations and friends of karate.

As Mayor of Guadalajara, it is a real honor for me to welcome all the countries participating in the Mediterranean Karate Games, which will be held in our city from September 12 to 14, 2025.

The Mediterranean Sea has historically been a bridge between cultures, civilizations and peoples and Guadalajara is deeply proud to host this international event, which makes our city a meeting point for the talent, discipline and values that karate represents. During these days, we will live a great celebration of sport, where competition will join the coexistence, respect and self-improvement.

From the Guadalajara City Council, we firmly believe in the power of sport as an engine for the transformation of society, as a school of life and as a tool to build a healthier and more inclusive city, with opportunities for all. Therefore, this event is not only a first class sporting event, but also an expression of our commitment to the values that sport transmits: effort, respect, equality and fellowship.

I wish all participants an unforgettable stay in Guadalajara, and that these Mediterranean Games will be an enriching experience in both sporting and human terms.

Welcome to Guadalajara, the city of sport and hospitality!

Ana Guarinos López

3. GUADALAJARA

Guadalajara is a Spanish city and municipality, capital of the province of the same name, in the autonomous community of Castilla-La Mancha. It is located on a hillock between two deep ravines, the Alamín and the Coquín or San Antonio, which brought their waters to the left bank of the Henares river valley, in the highest part of the southern plateau, between the regions of La Alcarria and La Campiña del Henares.

It was founded by the Arabs between the 8th and 9th centuries. Its name, from the Andalusian Arabic 'wād al-ḥaṣṣarah' (وادي الحجرة or واد الحجرة) given to the river Henares, is thought to have come from this period. Nearby there had been a Roman site, whose name, Arriaca, may have the same meaning. The city reached a certain splendour in the 10th century, despite its location in a territory that was almost always on a war footing

In 1085, Guadalajara was conquered by Alfonso VI of León, attributed to Alvar Fáñez de Minaya.⁵ From that moment until the battle of Navas de Tolosa in 1212, the history of the city reflects the course of the wars against the Almoravids and Almohads.⁶ In 1133, King Alfonso VII granted the first charter to the town to regulate the life of its community, establishing a set of rules, rights and privileges, and in 1219, Fernando III extended it by granting the long charter to the town.⁷ Subsequently, the protection of King Alfonso X ensured the economic development of the town, by defending its merchants and authorising its fairs and markets. In the second half of the 14th century, the Mendoza family settled in Guadalajara, and their subsequent rise brought with it that of the city. In 1460, King Enrique IV granted the town the title of city. The 16th century saw a period of prosperity.
